LANGUAGE CREATION SOCIETY

Need a language for your novel, game, movie or TV show?

Maybe it's spoken by a far-future human culture, by aliens, dwarves or were-badgers. Maybe you need a basic sound system and some root words to build consistent names for people and places. Maybe you need a full-fledged language to write dialogue in.

The Language Creation Society's professional sevices are for you.

The producers of HBO's Game of Thrones series used the LCS to find a professional conlanger to flesh out George R. R. Martin's sketch of the Dothraki language into a full language the actors could speak on screen. The language you'll get from the LCS will be created by knowledgeable, experienced language-makers: complex, plausible and well-suited to their fictional speakers. They're peer-reviewed by other experienced conlangers and linguists, and can be tailored to the scale and budget of any project.

"We're tremendously excited to be working with David and the LCS. The language he's devised is phenomenal. It captures the essence of the Dothraki, and brings another level of richness to their world."

- Dan Weiss, executive producer of Game of Thrones

conlang.org/services

lcs@conlang.org